The ground-breaking ceremony for the new Crawford County Building was held on Saturday, March 30, 1968, at 10:30 a.m. in Grayling.

Local citizens turned out in a bright sunny day Saturday to watch B. J. Fowler, chairman of the Crawford County Board of Supervisors turn the shovel to officially break ground for the new County Building.

Following the ground breaking, a luncheon was held at the Penguin Inn at noon, hosted by the Building Authority.

This ceremony is the culmination of many months of planning and devoted effort by the Crawford County Building Authority, which was created and supported by the County Board of Supervisors. The Building Authority is composed of Olin E. Williamson, chairman, Glen E. Nolan, secretary, and Robert E. Shook, treasurer.

The building was designed by Harley, Ellington, Cowin and Sturton, Inc., Detroit based firm of architects and engineers. This firm also designed the recently completed Ausagra Acres, first Senior Citizens Housing Project in Grayling, and currently is developing water, sewer and street programs for the city. Construction which will be by Elzinga and Volkers, General Contractors of Holland, Mich. will be completed early in 1969.

The new County Building will be a one-story masonry structure, and will contain not only the County administrative offices and courts, but also the County law enforcement and detention facilities. It will occupy a site at a focal point of the city at the foot of Michigan Avenue, overlooking the Grayling Golf Course and beautifully surrounded by the AuSable River.

PROGRESS vs. STALEMATE

A meeting was held Friday of last week at Chief Shoppenagons to set the ground work for a general cooperation project in the area to either step forward in progress or sit back and watch the world go by.

Jack A. Ielf, president of the Grayling State Bank, chairman of the meeting which 35 local citizens attended.

Mr. A. Ielf outlined the projects of the meeting, stating that it will take the full cooperation of everyone in order to have a stable economic climate in the city and county.

Industry is a must in the area to enable the younger generation to stay in the county, and make their livelihood.

With industry housing and modern facilities are needed. Through this meeting and future ones, it is hoped that a solution may be reached.

Albert R. Mitchell, executive vice president of Bear Archery, explained some of the problems Bear Archery is encountering, and a possible expansion program.

Mr. Mitchell told of the growth of Bear in the past six years. In 1962, 127 were employed and at present, employment is 329. Projected business expansion is expected to double the number of employees to 658 in the next two years.

Mr. Mitchell stated that some of the employees are commuted as far as 35-40 miles; He also said that a questionnaire was being circulated at the Archery for information on the types of living accommodations individuals would prefer, and this should be available by the next meeting.

Also brought up for discussion was the need of a general cleanup program to rid the city of unsightly old buildings, dismantled cars and trucks, plus an interest on the part of all citizens in the appearance of their homes and yards and businesses.

Harold C. Ielf, city manager said the city planned again to assist in making debris in the annual spring cleanup. He also said a concerted effort was being made to get rid of old cars and trucks, but a problem faced the city as to where these could be placed.

Basically, the need is for all to work together to make Grayling and Crawford County a place where people will want to come and live.

By so doing industries such as Bear Archery, Grayling Reef, Stephan Wood, product, Riker Wholesale, Leubert, Grayling Tool & Box, A. S. de Woodworking, Grayling Cabinet Co. will all benefit from the growth and expansion.

By doing work and making who knows, Grayling may be called another "Big Bear" town.

The next meeting will be held by a noon luncheon at the Chief Shoppenagons on Friday, April 10. Anyone who wants to see the area as it is, or who wants to help in the cleanup, should plan to attend.

Crouch of Lake Margrethe, and Wayne Harris Sullivan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Patrick Sullivan of 2844 Oakdale, Ann Arbor, were exchanged at four o'clock on Saturday, March 23 at the Michelson Memorial Methodist Church in Grayling. This program helps a child develop independence, socialization and broader experiences, and also helps children to accept instructions and discipline in group situations. Shown are some of the children illustrating some of their activities.

Extension Program Leader, Natural Resources were other noted speakers.

Woman's Club

Woman's Club members and their guests were royally entertained Monday night by the Singing Vikings under the direction of Howard Taylor, with the talented Miss Becky Kangas playing their accompaniment. The choreography was limited due to lack of space but their songs were delightful. The ladies were pleased and proud to know that Grayling has produced a group of talented and so attractive. Looking at these young men, one realized that after all most teenagers are fine people and responsible citizens. The entertainers joined the members in an Easter buffet with spring decorated cupcakes, lemonade and coffee served by Marcella Holcomb, June Hatt and Agnes Hawkins.

Before the program, Woman's Club participation in the Crawford Community Fund was approved and discussed. The opening meeting was held at the clubhouse. The next will be at the Michelson Memorial Church on April 17.

Girl Scout News

A Girl Scout neighborhood meeting was held Monday, March 11 at the Michelson Methodist Church with 16 attending.

Minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. Mrs. Rauch noted one change, the training session planned for March 18 had been changed to May 2.

By law changes were read by Mrs. Rauch and we discussed the council meeting held March 20 in Alpena for the purpose of voting on these changes. Three delegates from Grayling attended the meeting.

We had a discussion concerning uniforms of Brownie Junior and Cadette Scouts.

We talked over the program we had on Sunday, March 10 in connection with the Girl Scout Birthday. We were very pleased with the number of parents, relatives and friends who attended making our first attempt at getting our adults and scouts together a success.

Mrs. Rauch brought to our attention that permission slips had to be used at all times, except if you wanted to take the girls outdoors and you stayed within sight of your meeting place you would not need them.

We had an investment ceremony with Mrs. Rauch investing three, Mrs. Akers, Mrs. Feldhauser and Mrs. McEvers.

Meeting was adjourned, our next meeting to be held Monday April 8.

CHRISTMAS SEAL SALE LAGS HERE

Michigan's 1967 Christmas Seal campaign for Crawford County ends on March 31. County contributions to the campaign have reached $1,102 which is slightly below the $1,174 contributed at this same time last year, reports the Michigan Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association, state Christmas Seal agency.

J. Irvin Nichols, executive director of the Association, said that, although county contributions are lower than last year, he hopes persons who have not answered their appeal letters will do so before the end of March to help the campaign go over the top.

Nichols said citizen contributions support the year-round work of the Association in the fight against tuberculosis and other breath stealing diseases. Program activities include promoting chest x-ray surveys, assisting in tuberculin skin testing of school children, smoking education, withdrawal clinics, breathing classes for asthmatic children and for adults with emphysema, chronic bronchitis and other respiratory diseases, air conservation, research at Michigan's leading universities plus other programs vital to the health of Michigan citizens.

County residents who have not answered their appeal letter are urged to do so by the end of March.

The 1968 Tournament Report

This is the first year that we have had a district, a regional, and a quarter final tournament in our gym. There were eight nights of tournament play in a period of 15 days. I would like to thank all the people that helped to put on these games.

It is difficult to visualize the many minor details that must be taken care of in the preparation for tournament games. It would be almost impossible to conduct a tournament without the fine cooperation of many people. One of the many satisfactions derived from being the tournament host is the letters that we receive from competing schools and referees complimenting our school and community on the fine manner in which our tournaments are handled.

BUSINESS

Why is the economy booming and overhauled all over the country except in our area?

So writes a Utah businessman who also has no increase in business there. He is probably being facetious with his question. But on the other hand, one could assume that he is serious, that he has been reading all about the exciting gains of our economy and is downright puzzled that his locality is not sharing in this increased business and prosperity.

There has been much talk about a booming, overheated economy in recent years, most of it coming from Washington.

Just a few months ago, Gardner Ackley, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors, was urging Congress to hurry and pass a tax increase to head off "excessive acceleration" in the economy. (Later, the argument for an increase shifted to anti-inflation.)

In December, the President stated: "We are now in the 32nd month of the American economic miracle. This sustained prosperity is unparalleled in our history."

Then the Secretary of Commerce forecast "a new wave of prosperity" in 1968, with significant gains in employment, income, profits and purchasing power. He did not mention the best bet of all, inflation, except in a footnote.

It is "heating up" in the business world, but not in the economy. The economy is still in a state of stagnation, and the business world is still in a state of stagnation.

Businessmen are not happy. They are not happy because they are not getting the results they want. They are not happy because they are not getting the results they want.

Dear Sir:

Now that "March Madness" is over I would like to thank you and the people of Grayling for the excellent hospitality shown to our basketball team and students during the quarter-final tournament. I realize that many problems had to be worked out before we were allowed the use of your airfield, and because it was handled so graciously by your people, I wanted to let you know how much we appreciate it. It's too bad such a fine airport cannot be utilized more extensively by the public. I am sure it would mean more progress and industry for the city of Grayling. Please be assured I am not being critical of your National Guard personnel. They have a job to do and it is quite evident they are doing it well, but it seems to me that when a fine airport such as yours is limited to certain air traffic, then the result is limited progress for the community. Again thank you.

Respectfully,

NEW DIRECTOR AT HOUGHTON LAKE PLAYHOUSE NAMED

DELBERT J. PARKER

The Houghton Lake Playhouse announced this week appointment of Delbert J. Parker, 38, New York City, as director-producer, succeeding Philip J. Smith who has been with the summer theater since its opening in 1963.

At the same time the Board of Trustees of Kirtland Community College announced Parker's appointment to the college faculty. The College is preparing for a September opening.

Veteran actor and director Phil Smith and his equally well known wife, Kay Gillian, notified the Playhouse last fall that they would not be returning. Smith accepted the job of directing an off Broadway presentation of Ayn Rand's "The Fountainhead" scheduled for opening in the fall.

Smith may come to Houghton Lake at the onset of the 1968 season to assist his successor to move into his new responsibilities.

The new director-producer has worked in Michigan before. He won first prize for playwriting from Wayne State University where he graduated with a BA degree in 1965. He has devoted the past 15 months to playwriting. He taught creative dramatics at the Detroit Institute of Musical Arts in 1964-65 and he was directing acting classes for adults and teenagers from 1965 to 1966 at the Max Slater Academy, New York City.

He studied at Denver University where he had been awarded a theater scholarship, and at DePaul University under a special student grant.

Parker was born at Great Bend, Kansas, and grew up in the Midwest.

Cancer Crusade

at that as captains completed their areas, they return folders to her immediately at her home on Audible Trails or leave them at the DuBois Lumber Company office.

Following this education chairman Mrs. Eli Beery was presented, and gave an interesting talk on the national kickoff for crusade and educational workers held in Cleveland, and some of the Society's educational material. Mrs. Beery asked for three volunteers, men or women who are not fund drive workers and who are perhaps affiliated with a local service organization to aid her with the educational program of the society. She also told of the poster contest, which was judged on Wednesday this week and urged residents to look over the posters spread in store windows downtown as they will be taken down this Saturday.

Mrs. Beery then requested the volunteers to write down, in a two minute period, as many of cancer's seven warning signals as they could remember. She told that in 1945 only 50 percent of the people nationally could name even one of the seven signals, and 40 percent of them named four, and 15 percent named six which Mrs. Beery stated was a great improvement.

In conclusion Mrs. Henig thanked Mr. and Mrs. John Laussek of the Penguin Inn for the delicious and bountiful meal that was provided.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Elizabeth Caswell, who was called to her heavenly home April 1, 1948. We often sit and think of her. For memory is the only thing that great can give. Like my old dear mother, when all else fails, our love for her is still there. Our love for her is still there. Green and never fades. We love you, Mom. Lovingly, Elizabeth's family.

Sure you should. It makes sense. Especially when an extension costs less a day than a postage stamp. And it's a sure way to have a phone in a very important room in the house.

Think how much it is and how many of your family members.
